Part IV - Question: Why is tourism important to the economy, culture, and environment of a country/

Tourism is important because it helps improve a country’s economy by creating jobs and increasing income from visitors. It supports businesses such as hotels, restaurants, transportation, and souvenir shops. Tourism also promotes cultural exchange because tourists learn about local traditions, history, and customs. In addition, it encourages communities to preserve historical sites and cultural heritage. Sustainable tourism helps protect the environment by promoting conservation and responsible travel practices. Tourism can also improve infrastructure such as roads, airports, and public services. Overall, tourism benefits the economy, culture, and environment when managed responsibly.
